The leeches of the military industry crave fresh blood. Directors do not read poetry.
There's no reason - their children won't go to the trenches. Their servants, the party leaders, take care of it all. They don't read poetry either.
No need! They rule by the magic of fear, and no one will object to taking from schools or cutting funds for healthcare.
Patriotism is a benign tumor that constantly strives to return to its natural state. The Minister of Defense has been promoted to Minister of Offense. No one reads poetry, *what did the wife of the soldier get from the vast land of Russia?
At an emergency government session the living force has been increased from the modest twenty-five to an imposing two hundred fifty thousand graves.

*Bertold Brecht, What Did the Soldier's Wife Receive?
